2025 MEDICAL TRAINING SURVEY

Medical Training Survey data is being used in academic research, shaping trainee decisions and – most importantly - being used to improve training. This is exactly what we hoped for.

Since 2019, trainees have been using their voice, in their survey. Through the MTS, they are highlighting what is going well in medical training in Australia and safely calling out where action is needed.

Many of the most recent generation of medical trainees adding their voice to this important data-set had not started medical school when the MTS was established. Seven years on, many of the trainees who lobbied hard to create the MTS are specialists and leaders in the profession. Over time, the MTS has been absorbed into the everyday fabric of medical training.

This year, more than 18,000 trainees made time to do the MTS to tell us what's working and what's not. In 2025 more IMGs than ever before shared their perspectives.

Once again, the MTS results tell us what's going well in training and what needs to improve. MTS results year on year are remarkably consistent. There are areas of increasing strength and significant issues that stubbornly persist.

There are improvements in clinical supervision, orientation, teaching, education and training on patient safety is again high, with 83% of trainees agreeing they would recommend their training position and workplace as a place to train.

But the fault lines in the culture of medicine run deep. Unacceptably, the rate of bullying, discrimination, harassment (including sexual harassment) and racism sits stubbornly at an average of 30%, and nearly twice that (56%) for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander trainees. Appallingly, 38% of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander trainees reported experiencing and/or witnessing racism.

Work across the profession and the health sector to improve cultural safety and address racism remains urgent and essential.

Once again, there is nuance in these data, revealing the complexity of the workplace environment and variations between different groups of trainees. Interns and specialist non-GP trainees report having witnessed and/or experienced unacceptable behaviours nearly 20% more often than IMGs and GP trainees.

The source of the unacceptable behaviour experienced and/or witnessed is also changing, with a 10% drop longitudinally in senior medical staff as the source (56% in 2020 to 46% in 2025) and a nearly 10% rise in patients and/or patient families/ carers (38% in 2020 to 46% in 2025) as the source of the behaviour. Clearly, the deficits in the culture of medicine reported by trainees are firmly anchored to wider community attitudes and behaviours.

Once again, important themes are revealed when the longitudinal data set is explored through tailored searches in the online dashboard.

With strict confidentiality rules in place to protect trainees, the MTS online searchable database can reveal meaningful insights. Use it to compare trainees' feedback by specialty and jurisdiction. Take a deep dive into the culture and quality of training, and make comparisons across sites or specialties. The 2025 MTS results will be accessible in searchable form in early 2026 on the MedicalTrainingSurvey.gov.au website.

Each year, we refine some MTS questions to generate meaningful data that stakeholders can use more effectively to drive change. New insights in 2025 include:

- one in 10 of all trainees and one in six Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander trainees indicated they are considering a career outside of medicine within the next 12 months
- there is a slight decrease in the number of trainees reporting a heavy or very heavy workload
- differentiation in questions for different cohorts of specialist trainee make it possible for colleges to pin point what is working and address what is not.

The MTS is a survey by trainees, for trainees. The stories they share through MTS feedback are compelling and important. With that, comes a wider shared responsibility across the health sector and the profession to maintain high standards of medical training and develop effective strategies to address what needs to change.

Background

INTRODUCTION

The Medical Training Survey (MTS) is a national, profession-wide survey of doctors in training in Australia. It is a confidential way to get national, comparative data to strengthen medical training in Australia. The MTS is conducted annually with doctors in training, with 2025 representing the seventh wave of data collection.

The objectives of the survey are to:

- promote better understanding of the quality of medical training in Australia
- identify how best to improve medical training in Australia, and

- identify and help deal with potential issues in medical training that could impact on patient safety, including environment and culture, unacceptable behaviours and poor supervision.

The Australian Health Practitioner Regulation Agency (Ahpra), on behalf of the Medical Board of Australia (the Board), commissioned EY Sweeney to undertake data collection and report on the results for the MTS.

METHOD

Data collection for the MTS involved receiving responses to an online survey from  $n = 18,276$  doctors in training, with  $n = 17,622$  responses eligible for analysis (i.e. currently training in Australia) between 4 August and 9 October 2025.

Different versions of the survey were used to reflect the particular training environment of doctors who are at different stages in their training. Doctors in training answered questions about their experiences in their workplace. This could be the doctor in training's current setting, workplace, placement or rotation, or might be a previous setting, if they have only been practising or training in their current setting for less than two weeks.

For this report, results for Interns (Interns) are presented at an overall level. To explore results within Interns further, please visit medicaltrainingsurvey.gov.au/results.

INTERPRETING THIS REPORT

This report provides key results based on  $n = 1,128$  Interns compared against national results ( $n = 17,622$ ) of all eligible doctors in training (i.e. currently training in Australia).

Bases exclude 'not applicable' responses or where the respondent skipped the question. Data in this report are unweighted. Labels on stacked charts are hidden for results 3% or less. Results with base sizes of less than  $n = 10$  are suppressed.

Data percentages displayed throughout the report are rounded to the nearest whole number. As such, if there is an expectation for a given chart or table that all percentages stated should add to 100% or nets should equal to the sum of their parts, this may not happen due to rounding.
